Are you outgoing? A champion for the voluntary and community sector? Interested in promoting technology to enhance local services? Able to engage with professionals at all levels? If so, we may have a role for you.

This is a newly created role that will be responsible for updating and maintaining an established web-based online directory providing information and a referral system for Bromley's front-line health and social care professionals. It can also be used by the public to access voluntary and community services.

The role will require proactive engagement with a wide range of professionals working in health, social care and the voluntary sector. As well as ensuring data is up-to-date, accurate and quality assured, a key part of the role will be to raise awareness and stimulating interest and usage of the Directory. This will be achieved by hosting a series of workshops for frontline public facing staff.

In particular, we now wish to develop the platform to provide a whole-population approach, supporting people of all ages and their carers to manage and enhance their physical and mental health and wellbeing, address social isolation and loneliness, consequently building community resilience. It will do this by signposting the community and frontline public facing professionals to the available assets, strengths and capacities of local communities, enabling local Voluntary, Community and Social Enterprise (VCSE) organisations and community groups to receive referrals.

To discuss the role please contact Christopher Evans by email to admin@communitylinksbromley.org.uk

Please note that we do not accept CVs
