COMMUNITY LINKS BROMLEY

Introduction to community research

Helping your community shape the research that shapes health and care

Healthcare research influences the services your community receives.

Yet many communities affected by health inequalities are still under-represented in research.

Better community involvement leads to better research, better evidence, and better outcomes for your community.

Be part of Bromley's first community led research network

We are excited to announce that we are looking to develop a community led research network for Bromley and would love you to be part of it!

Come join us to learn all about community-led research, develop your skills in how to lead community research, and lets develop together our first ever Bromley community-led research for the benefit of our local communities.

CLICK HERE!

Part of the SEL Research Engagement Network programme (REN)

SEL Voluntary, Community and Social Enterprise Strategic Alliance

high trees